The Loss Is Mutual

The California Motor Vehicle Department this week provided Carmel with $235.53 and some unsatisfactory census figures.

The $235.53 is Carmel's apportionment of the vehicle license fee collections for the quarterly period ending June 30. Collections are allocated so that 20% goes to the general fund, 40% to the cities and 40% to the counties throughout the state, the cities and counties receiving their 40% according to population.

Carmel's allocation is based on a census of 2,837; Monterey, which received this quarter $837.18, is credited with a population of 10,084, while Pacific Grove, with a population of 6,249, receives $518.80. The relative small population figure, and corresponding small allotment for Carmel is due to the fact that Carmel's city limits do not include the thickly settled adjacent areas that use Carmel as a shopping center and are within walking distance of the business district.

Apparently it is not just those outside the city limits who lose through not being within the circle of police and fire protection. The city loses, also, every time state and federal allocations of funds are made according to population.

Seth Ulman Wins Commission For Record In Italy

Pine Cone readers will recall the letters printed under the title "Anabasis" on the Feature page last month from Seth Ulman to his mother, Mrs. Nelson Miles Leoni (Madeline Powers) in which he described his experiences under fire with the medical corp in Italy and his meeting in Rome with his grandmother, one of Carmel's earliest residents, Mrs. Jane Gallatin Powers. His sisters are Mrs. Howard McJurrin and Mrs. Elliott Kassett of San Francisco.

With the Fifth Army, Italy—A former teacher of English and dramatic arts at the University of California, Seth P. Ulman has been commissioned a second Lieutenant for his front-line work as a staff sergeant in the medics of the 88th Infantry Division. He has been transferred to an anti-aircraft unit also on the Fifth Army front in Italy.

Ulman was commissioned because of his ability in teaching medical subjects, his knowledge of the principles of first aid and his prompt and efficient action during emergencies on the frontlines, according to Major Kermit F. Perrin of Fort Wayne, Indiana, then his commanding officer.

On several occasions, Ulman instructed in medical aid, materia medica, classes in preparation of emergency medical tags, first aid for the soldier and maintenance of immunization records for an en-

J. M. Southwell Lets Gen. Patton Have Right-of-Way On Cherbourg Road—He's Home From Munition Ship Voyage

It all looked very interesting and dangerous to J. M. Southwell, Jr., from his front row seat as Seaman, A. B., on a munitions ship at anchor on July 19 off the invasion beach head, thirty miles south of Cherbourg. American troops were living in fox holes on the beach, dining monotonously on field rations, and ducking when the Jerries made sporadic raids. The front was twenty miles away at St. Lo. You could hear the bombardment, and at night you could see the flash of artillery fire.

"It looked dangerous, but it wasn't," said Southwell, when he dropped into The Pine Cone office Wednesday. "We had air control. When the Jerries came over at night, one in the lead to drop flares, two or three following, they never took a crack at the ships in the roadstead, but tried to get the ammunition dumps. They didn't get them very often, and when they did, it didn't do them much good because there was never more than a couple of tons of ammunition in a dump and the dumps were scattered all over the country. The real danger was the land mines. They cost our ship a sailor and stopped all shore leave."

Then how did he get to Cherbourg?

He sneaked off the ship on a "duck" — the amphibious trucks, driven by Negro soldiers, that were used for unloading the cargo ships — at four a. m., costumed in a trench coat for warmth, and a British helmet, just in case. He hitched a ride for a way inland on an ammunition truck but, "I had to hike to the highway, because Gen. Patton had the beach roads from there on blocked, moving troops up to St. Lo." On the highway he got a lift in a Stars and Stripes press car, returning from delivering papers to the front.

It was odd, riding through that French countryside, because for a stretch it would be like taking a pleasure drive in the country anywhere. Then they would come on a burnt-out tank in a ditch, or pass through a village where "there would be blocks that weren't touched and then blocks terribly torn up." The outskirts of Cherbourg were battered, and the harbor blocked, but the town itself seemed to have suffered little, either from war or famine. "The people looked healthy—it's an agricultural region—but their clothes were poor. They weren't very resentful against the Germans. They hadn't suffered like the people in the interior." He was amused to see them, wine jugs in hand, lined up in queues before the little liquor stores.

On the way back that afternoon, it wasn't Patton's boys, but the Britishers who created a block, seven of them, squatting in the road by their tank retriever, having tea. "I should like to have joined them," said Southwell, who had hooked his ride back in a jeep labeled "Ohama." He had spotted it parked in Cherbourg, and as his ship was berthed at "Utah," he knew that jeep would be going his way, for the code names Omaha and Utah designated adjacent landing areas.

That was his last unofficial leave — his first had occurred when he

SENATOR TICKLE TO SPEAK

Senator Edward H. Tickle will speak before the Monterey Peninsula Republican Women's Club on Saturday, September 30, at the House of the Four Winds, Calle Principal, Monterey. His subject is, "Campaign News and Views." The public is invited.

Dorothy Allen Dunn, Shanghailand, Speaker for Woman's Club Monday

Members of the Carmel Woman's Club are anticipating the pleasure of hearing Dorothy Allen Dunn, Shanghailand, cosmopolite, traveler and lecturer, give a talk on one of her interesting subjects, "Shanghai Interval," at two o'clock Monday afternoon, October 2, at the Girl Scout House.

A Down-East Yankee born in Siberia, Mrs. Dunn has lived most of her life in the Far East. Her education started in Vladivostok. It was continued at the Shanghai American School and completed at the University of New Hampshire. Upon being graduated, she took a trip to Shanghai, where she met and married Dr. Thomas Balfour Dunn. She has lived there since, with the usual variations of summer vacations in Japan or North China, America and Europe. Caught in Shanghai at the begin-

1st. Lt. Low Finds Family Treasures Intact In Paris

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Low have just received word from their son, First Lt. Kirby Low, that all their treasures, stored in Paris, when they left France in 1938, are intact. Lt. Low, who has served in the Field Artillery for two years, was transferred to the Civil Affairs branch of the service because of his proficiency in languages, and he was with the troops when Paris was liberated.

Mr. and Mrs. Low and their two sons had lived in Paris for ten years. When sensing trouble ahead, they put their belongings in storage under the U. S. embassy seal, and came back to the United States. After the Germans entered Paris and took over, the Lows abandoned all hope of ever seeing their things again. All their books, art treasures, silver and furniture that had been collected over Europe during the ten years they lived on the continent, they envisioned gracing the halls of the Goebbles, Goehring and the Gestapo. Lt. Low found everything just as it was left with the seals unbroken.

Promotion After Croix de Guerre For Col. H. P. Jay

Honors are coming thick and fast to Col. Henry B. Jay. He has been promoted to Brig. General in charge of the second corps artillery of the Fifth Army under General Mark Clark in Italy. The Pine Cone learned this week. News of the promotion follows by only several weeks the word of how the French, for his cooperation with the French army under Gen. Juin, rewarded him with their highest honor, the Croix de Guerre, also the Silver Star. He has received the American decoration, the Legion of Merit, for outstanding services in Italy.

General Jay has served in the regular army for 28 years. He saw action on the Mexican border during the Villa uprising. In World War I he was in France with the Field Artillery, Sixth Division. He was active in the African campaign.

Bud Stoney Killed at Carentan

Bud Stoney, son of Martel Stoney, for twenty years Carmel resident, was killed in action in the vicinity of Carentan, June 9, on the first day of the invasion of Normandy, while serving as a paratrooper in the Army, it was learned here this week.

Though the young paratrooper did not attend Carmel schools, nor remain here during the winter months, he spent many of his summer vacations here with his father, coming down from Sterling City, where he lived with his maternal grandparents. His mother had died in his early youth.

Stoney was the nephew of A. C., Paul, and R. B. Stoney, and of Mrs. Louis Lewis, all of Carmel. He was a cousin of Carlyle Lewis, the second Carmel boy to lose his life while serving in the armed forces of World War II. Bud visited here with his aunt, Mrs. Lewis about a year and a half ago when he stopped over on his way south to enlist. After six months training in the United States, he was based in England, where he became engaged to a girl serving in the WACS.

His father, Martel, who left Carmel three years ago and is now a resident of Fresno, is here this week, visiting with his sister, Mrs. Lewis.

In addition to his father, uncles and aunt, Bud Stoney is survived by three brothers: Clark and Elwood, in the Navy; and Jim, in the Army.

The purple heart, awarded posthumously, was sent to his father.

Fr. Ord Psychiatrist To Give Course At Carmel Adult School

Captain Eric L. Berne, Medical Corps, Chief of the Neurology Section of the Regional Hospital at Fort Ord, will conduct a series of discussions at the Carmel Adult School on the subject of "Human Motivation in Peace and War," John H. Westover, principal, announced yesterday. The course will be held at Sunset School on Tuesday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30, beginning October 3. There will be six discussion periods in all, and the series will be part of the regular scheduled program of the Adult School.

Captain Berne is a graduate of McGill University and a diplomate of the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology. He is a member of the American Psychiatric Association, the Connecticut Society for Psychiatry and Neurology, and other scientific and professional societies. Before he entered the service, he practiced psychiatry in Connecticut and New York City, and was connected with hospitals in both localities. He has studied at the Yale Institute of Human Relations and the New York Psychoanalytic Institute.

Captain Berne, whose home is in Westport, Conn., is at present living on Castro Lane in Carmel Woods with his wife, their little daughter Ellen, and their springer spaniel Janie. Mrs. Berne is the former Ruth Harvey, pianist, of Chicago, a student of Rudolph Reuter.

Clubbers Plan Large Night For Saturday, Picnic, Dance, Food

With Bill Finger, club president, in charge, committee members of the Carmel High School Club met last Monday night to review the dance which was given the preceding week end and to make plans for a beach party and dance this coming Saturday.

It was reported by Marian Daugaillo, decoration chairman, and Pamela Dormody, social chairman, that the dance cost $8.00, while the door collected $15.00.

After other small matters were taken care of, the question arose as to the information concerning a party this Saturday. When the dust cleared, the following had been decided on:—meet at 7:30 p. m., Saturday, September 30, on the sand dunes at the foot of Ocean Ave. A sort of a picnic will be held, with the girls bringing the food. After two hours or so, the couples will go up to "The Club" proper, and there dance until midnight, with the boys providing the entrance money, which will be 25 cents per couple, 50 cents stag, and 75c non-members. It's going to be quite a night.

Cmdr. Flanders

Full naval honors were accorded Commander Paul Flanders in services held at Del Monte Chapel Thursday afternoon at 2 p. m. His death occurred suddenly on September 21 in Washington, D. C., where he had gone on official business from his base at Treasure Island.

Commander Flanders, who came to Carmel from New York with Mrs. Flanders in 1923, was active in the social and business life of the community as a member of the Manzanita club, the American Legion and the Masonic Lodge, and as president of the Carmel Land Company until his re-enlistment in the Navy in September of 1940. After attendance at the Naval Mine school at Yorktown, he was assigned to the command of the Mine Patrol Force, Twelfth Naval district, and stationed at Treasure Island, where the fine character and lovable personality that Carmel knew won for him the friendship and affection of his fellow officers.

Commander G. F. Martin, chief staff officer, Northern California Sector, Western Sea Frontier, with whom Commander Flanders was closely associated, said:

"He was one of the kindest men I have ever known. He was always trying to do something for someone. He was one of the most popular officers we had here. He took a tremendous interest in the Mine Force and it is largely through his efforts that this activity has been built up to its present state of efficiency."

He was born in Chicago in 1890, attended Lewis Institute, the University of Illinois and the Darmstadt Technical Hochschule in Germany. In World War I he was a Lieutenant in the Navy, commanding subchasers in the North Sea from their base at Inverness Mine Depot, Scotland.

His sudden death, from a heart attack, was a shock to his many Carmel friends as he was believed to be in good health when he left for his mission to Washington.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Grace Flanders, Carmel; his daughter, Mrs. Stephen Plunkett, Los Angeles; two brothers, John and Harvey Flanders, Chicago; a niece, Mrs. William Cope, Palo Alto; two nephews, Lt. Col. E. A. Flanders and Private John Harvey Flanders, serving in the army overseas.

More Workers Needed For Community War Chest Campaign

Jimmy Doud, chairman of the Carmel Community and War Chest Drive, announces that Captains and their workers are ready in Carmel to open the War Chest Drive October 9th. Mr. Doud says that complete coverage of the Carmel territory this year is necessary if Carmel is to help meet the Peninsula goal of $68,472. Of this total $36,330 goes to the War Chest and $32,142 to the Community Chest.

To get complete coverage of Carmel additional workers are greatly needed. Mr. Doud asks that both new and old residents who are interested in helping achieve this goal, phone 12, Chest Headquarters, in the Las Tiendas building, donated by Corum Jackson.

The following have been named as captains for the 14 Carmel districts and the several surrounding areas:

Mr. Hugh Van Swearingen, Carmel Highlands; Mrs. Dwight Morrow, Jr., Carmel Valley; Mrs. Thomas Bunn, Pebble Beach; Lynda Sargent, Big Sur and Coast.

Mr. Wesley Kergan, Business District; Mrs. Frank Bell, Mrs. Hugh Comstock, Miss Helen Willard, Mrs. Bruce Spencer, Mrs. E. A. H. Watson, Mrs. J. W. Murphy, Jr., Mrs. C. W. Laugenour, Mrs. Walter Kerwin, Mrs. Robert Doolittle, Mrs. James Doud, Mrs. G. W. Stuart, Miss Sue Brooks, and Mrs. George H. Shea.

Bronze Star With Oak Leaf Cluster For Lt. Col. Dillingham

Lt. Col. Harold S. Dillingham, whose wife, Mrs. Ann E. Dillingham, and their two daughters, Joan and Frances, live in Carmel, was awarded the newly authorized Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster for meritorious achievement in connection with military operations, in recent ceremonies at a Central Pacific Base.

He received the Bronze Star from Major General John R. Hodge in recognition of his outstanding work as an Artillery Battalion Commander during the assault and capture of Kwajalein Atoll in the Marshalls early this year.

He was awarded the Oak Leaf Cluster in lieu of a second Bronze Star by his commander, Major General A. V. Arnold of the Seventh Infantry Division, for his meritorious achievement in battle against the Japanese on Attu in the Aleutians a year ago.

Formerly the Pacific Coast Manager of the Produce Reporter Co., with offices at Los Angeles, Col. Dillingham, a veteran of two major campaigns in the Pacific war, is serving at present as Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2 with the 7th Division somewhere in the Pacific.

Spanish, Philosophy, Packing Them In At Carmel Adult School

Carmel Adult Evening School opened the first week with one of the largest enrollments in its history. The Spanish Department has a record enrollment and steps are being taken to increase the number of class meetings to accommodate the large number of people interested.

Dr. E. O. Sisson's class in Philosophy threatens to outgrow room 11, but the seating capacity will be increased to take care of the present enrolment and the anticipated increase.

Courses in Creative Writing and Short Story under Miss Irene Alexander have also been very popular, with large enrollments in both the beginning and advanced classes.

Coach Rudd, with the facilities of the excellent gymnasium of the Carmel High School, is prepared to take care of a much larger enrollment in his physical education classes than he has had so far. He especially invites all you men who suffer from over-inflation of the waist line to join up and guarantees speedy and pleasing results. A variety of games and physical exercises is offered that will appeal to men of all ages and physical ability.

It has been necessary to make a few changes as to room numbers and meeting time of classes. Mrs. Patricia Cunningham's course in Sketching and Painting meets both Tuesday and Thursday at 3:40 in room 11 at Sunset. Intermediate Spanish meets Monday at 7:30, room 11 Sunset.

Further news and items of interest about other courses will appear in coming issues of The Pine Cone.

Lt. Gov. Fred Houser Stops Over In Carmel

Lieutenant Governor Fred Houser, republican candidate for United States Senator, was a visitor in Carmel Monday. Mrs. Dorothy Houser, who is accompanying him on his tour of northern California counties, was with him. They were guests at the La Ribera Hotel.

Lt. Gov. Houser was here for a day of rest and relaxation during his campaign which has carried him through thirty-six counties since the middle of August.

Following their brief stay here, the Housers went to Salinas, where he was the speaker at a political rally of which Assemblyman Fred Weybret, nominee for State Senator, was the chairman.

Bartalini Returns This Week End

Bartalini, fresh from his New York triumphs, returns to Carmel for two performances at the Playhouse on Sunday, October 1, and Monday, October 2, at 8:30 p. m. in a program of all new numbers.

Bartalini's talents are extraordinary, and his programs are not only popular with the art-loving public, but also with those seeking sheer beauty and entertainment. His programs at Times Hall in New York in May were one of New York's dramatic sensations of the season.

VOTE NO! on proposition No. 12

Governor Earl Warren, the State Chamber of Commerce, civic leaders and a score of employer, employee, civic, veteran and church groups have come forward to oppose No. 12 on the ballot in the election, November 7th. These leaders look upon No. 12 as a threat to industrial peace in California and as a dangerous attack on our united efforts to win the war.

If written into the constitution, this committee is convinced that this proposal entitled "The Right of Employment" would prove a powder keg. It would bring chaos, confusion, and industrial warfare. It would destroy peace on the home front.

Ostensibly designed to crush trade unions, No. 12 goes far afield. It threatens the present good will existing between labor and industry. It comes as an un-American attack on war production. California has plenty of wartime and post war problems. Why start a civil war on the home front?

Finn Frolich To Model Bust In Club Window

Finn Haakon Frolich, nationally known Norwegian sculptor and resident of Carmel, will give a demonstration of "art in action" in the big window of the Democratic headquarters, Seventh and San Carlos, beginning today. Frolich will model a bust of President Roosevelt, whom he is well equipped to portray, as he met the President, and they became friends, while Mr. Frolich was in New York making a bust of Dr. Horace Wallace, who was Roosevelt's physician when he was Governor of New York.

Frolich and the then Governor Roosevelt found mutual interest in spinning sea yarns of the deep water, square rigger ships. All Norwegians go to sea in their youth, and approaching 80, Frolich still longs for the sea. His son, Guilford Frolich, is in the U. S. Merchant Marine.

Speaking of his project of modeling the head of the President, Frolich said, "I hope to put into this bust the love and respect I feel for our President". The public will be able to see him working daily from 2 to 5 o'clock.

Col. Loef Named Liaison Officer Of Famous Base

Colonel Joseph W. Loef, after twenty-one months, service in North Africa and Italy, has been named Liaison Officer of the Peninsula Base Section, first American Supply base to be established on the European mainland after the troops landed at the Salerno Beaches. It was from this base that a bloodless battle took place that was as dramatic as any fought against the Nazis, a battle against time and disease, on the outcome of which depended the lives of the civilian population of the occupied territory as well as of the troops.

Colonel Loef, who graduated from the University of Texas in 1914, and held a commission in the Field Artillery during the last world war, brought Mrs. Loef to Carmel when he was stationed at Fort Ord two years ago. Here in the house they bought on Madera Drive, Mrs. Loef is living during his overseas duty, and here they intend to make their permanent home.

The Free Press—
Torch of World Peace

Above is the prize winning emblem depicting the newspaper as a torch, including California's slogan, "The Free Press—Torch of World Peace," issued by the California Newspaper Publishers Association in honor of National Newspaper Week, October 1 to 8. The Pine Cone Cymbal has on hand proclamations by the President of the United States, and by the Governor of California; also statements by Governor Dewey, by the Governor of California, by a number of California state officers, and no end of lesser lights, all pointing out what a fine fella is the home town newspaper; but The Pine Cone is sparing its readers these declamations, believing that any newspaper that has the loyal and affectionate support of the community as this one has, needs not tell its readers it's a fine fella, for obviously, its readers think so without being told. So The Pine Cone will celebrate National Newspaper Week by saying "Thank You," and go on trying its darndest to deserve the loyalty and approval it so generously receives.

Major Perrin, in recommending him for commission, also cited Ulman's work in the hours after the gigantic offensive started May 11 on the Fifth Army front in Italy. Due to the number of casualties pouring into the battalion aid station, medical officers were swamped with patients and unable to treat them all.

"Ulman immediately began to sort out the most seriously wounded casualties," the recommendation stated, "and saw to it that they received priority treatment by the medical officers. In addition, he exercised his knowledge of medical aid by treating, on his own responsibility, the slightly wounded casualties. He also assisted the medics by applying arm and leg dressings of all types and administering plasma where it was indicated.

"Through a period of 36 hours, he worked untiringly with little food and without rest, in a small sanger that was the improvised aid station. His work in every instance was efficient and beyond reproach."

When a 100-mule pack train with which he was traveling was ambushed during heavy mountain-fighting, Ulman led a squad of litter-bearers to evacuate the wounded American soldiers in an area endangered by constant fire.

ANDREWS CASE DEVELOPMENTS

The trial of Mrs. Frances Andrews, Carmel Valley, charged with the murder of Jay Lovett, neighboring farm boy, opened on Tuesday, September 19, in Judge H. G. Jorgensen's court in Salinas, but it was not until Friday that a jury was selected and District Attorney Anthony Brazil made his opening statement, saying he proposed to prove that young Lovett did not commit suicide but was murdered, that Mrs. Andrews killed him, and that jealousy was her motive.

Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of this week, Brazil presented his witnesses: Dr. A. A. Arehart, autopsy surgeon, who testified to the absence of powder burns in Jay Lovett's flesh, Deputy Sheriffs Gene Trenner and Charles Brown who testified to the position of Lovett's body by the side of the county road in Carmel Valley near the entrance to the Andrews ranch and the presence of Mrs. Andrews' pistol, bare of fingerprints, near the body; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Willicombe and Mrs. Willicombe's father, William H. Henry, who testified that Mrs. Andrews came to them on the night of the Lovett boy's death, saying that he had shot himself and was dying; Luther Lovett, Jr., 17, brother of Jay, who described Mrs. Andrews' visit to the Lovett ranch on the afternoon of Jay's death when, he said, she invited Jay to come to her home for dinner and the movies afterward, and Jay's evasion of the invitation, adding that he (Luther) knew at the time that Jay intended to dine with Mrs. Nancy Linde, the Lovett's neighbor; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wood of Palo Alto who were driving down the valley on the night of Lovett's death and had a passing glimpse of the body, and talked to Henry.

The jury, which has not been locked up for the trial, is: Mrs. Marjorie Glasgow (alternate), Edward Dumont (alternate), Mrs.

Francis Callahan, Salinas housewife; Mrs. Alice Jacob, wife of a Salinas farmer; Mrs. Alma Borchers, wife of a Pacific Grove seed and fuel merchant; Ray Faulkner, fireman at the Presidio of Monterey; Mrs. Nettie Boyd, Spreckels housewife; James Barbee, San Lucas cattleman and rancher; Mrs. Mildred Anderson, Pajaro resident and Watsonville physician's secretary; Axel Carlson, Salinas building contractor; Mrs. Charlotte Clark, wife of a Carmel physician and surgeon; George Decker, Monterey, who operates a group of barber shops; Mrs. Helen Evans, Salinas housewife; and Mrs. Elizabeth Jefferson, wife of a Castroville farmer.

Jessie Joan Bever Receives Missing In Action Message

Jessie Joan Brown Bever received a telegram from the War Department last Saturday announcing that her husband, Lt. Earl Bever, Jr., B-20 pilot, was missing in action over France, September 6. Lt. Bever has been overseas only a few months but has the brilliant record of 46 missions to his credit, and has been awarded the Air Medal and five Oak Leaf Clusters.

Mrs. Bever received a letter from her husband written on the date that he was reported missing, saying that he was looking forward to Christmas shopping with her in New York. They were married July 3, 1943, while he was stationed at Mather Field.

On receipt of the notice from the War Department, Mrs. Bever left to spend a week with her husband's mother, who lives at Sherman Oaks, a suburb of Los Angeles.

MRS. CARTER FINED

Mrs. Louise Carter was fined $25 Tuesday by Police Judge George P. Ross, for allowing her dog, Cerri, to run loose in violation of quarantine regulations. Mrs.

Carter pleaded guilty to the charge brought by Jules Kahofer, humane officer. The warrant for Mrs. Carter's arrest was not served as she is an elderly woman, but she was brought to court by her daughter, Elaine.

The case against Elaine Carter on the same charge was dismissed after it was established that her mother was the owner of the dog in question.

... it's still abalone

—BY OLIVER C. BASSETT

At various times over the week end people who spotted me bobbing along the street have asked for dope on the High School football team. So, off I trot to Mr. Rudy Rudd, the coach, and gently start a conversation:

"Well, coach, it looks like we have a great year ahead. Everything progressing smoothly on the gridiron, I suppose—ha! ha!"

"Oh yes, we have a winning team all right and say, just for your satisfaction, after that crack last week, I got three abalones last Saturday. HA! HA!"

It must have been a fight. Coach apparently galloped over those abalones one, two, three, with offensive plays right from the start. They didn't stand a chance but, he reminded me, they were kicking to the very end, with the last few minutes the toughest. "And wettest," he added.

Coach settled back to let all this sink in, and after seeing my face light with admiring awe, he finally told me news about the team. They are having heavy practice, each afternoon with only the expected number of casualties. The worst so far is a broken toe, suffered by Allen Green, a six-foot-two line-man.

Coach makes all the fellows going out for football walk to school each morning. "For," as he pointed out, "that Carmel hill is a gym period in itself." To make sure they follow this rule he ambles to some unsuspected corner, in the morning, picking a different one every day, and there keeps personal watch.

If you go way down around Hat-ton Fields in your car so as to be sure to miss coach, it is very disconcerting to find him leaning lightly against the Mission wall with a notebook in his hand, as you can imagine.

Coach also tries to persuade the girls to walk so that they will persuade the boys, but that is a story in itself.

When the bell rang and I gathered up my things to leave, coach dived into a bunch of papers on his desk and with the parting words, "You might be able to use this," shoved one of them into my notebook.

The following is what was scribbled on it, and although there was no heading I have taken the liberty to suppose it must be this:

In my wanderings around the pine-shaded streets of Carmel I have come across numerous people tugging wildly at an ornery little shrub, with yellow, sweet pea shaped blooms, which seems to be always in the most desirable spot. You may see these people, too, so I just thought you might like to know that

SCIENCE CALLS IT GENISTA CANARIENSIS

You rent a house,
"Boy, what a view!"
Ha! Ha! O. K.
I like it too.

The garden's sweet—
Or is it, sister?
Well, maybe not—
You got genista.

Just dig it out.
Sure go ahead,
Use force,
That is a flower bed.

That was easy
Now it's gone.
Simple, huh?
You plant at dawn.

But maybe not,
And here's the twister,
You now find
You've more genista.

This is odd!
Again you sweat,
And now it's out.

Lt. Col. Fergusson Awarded Bronze Star

Lieut. Col. Robert G. Fergusson of Forest Park, Illinois, whose wife Charlotte, and sixteen month old son live in Carmel, was awarded the newly authorized Bronze Star Medal for meritorious achievement in connection with military operations, by Major General John R. Hodge, in a ceremony held recently at a Central Pacific Base.

Colonel Fergusson, a veteran of two major campaigns in the Pacific war, received the decoration in recognition of his outstanding work as Intelligence Officer of the Seventh Division, prior to and during the assault and capture of Kwajalein Atoll, center of Jap held Marshall Islands early this year.

Formerly commander of the Seventh Reconnaissance Squadron, which was attached to the Seventh Division, Colonel Fergusson was assigned as Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2, prior to the attack on Attu, and has served in that capacity through both the Division's Campaigns.

Fergusson attended Proviso High School in Maywood, Illinois, graduating in 1929; and Beloit College, Beloit, Wisconsin, until 1932,

"You want to bet?"

You're sure of that?
You raised a blister?
Well, sorry friend,

when he entered the United States Military Academy. He graduated from West Point in 1936.

Watercolor Show of Much Interest

BY PATRICIA CUNNINGHAM

The Carmel Art Gallery's current exhibit of watercolors, pastels, and chalk drawings in the George F. Beardsley Memorial Room is eloquent of the wide range of ideas and versatility in techniques among the exhibiting members of the Art Association.

Opinion as to which paintings are outstanding will depend entirely on the special interests of the visitor to the gallery. Among the portraits, for instance, John O'Shea's exuberant "The Smile" is sure to be a great favorite. It is a superb example of the expressive power achieved by economy of means and ease of execution. When an artist has advanced to the point where he can make one line or brush stroke convey the full burden of an idea, he can make a head that is full of life and vitality as this one is. Other portraits are by Florence Lockwood and Kay Rodgers in their characteristic pastel techniques, which so appealingly present their very attractive subjects.

There are strong figure paintings by Roy Martin and Richard Lofton. "The Poker Game" of Roy Martin urges the observer to the most enthusiastic praise of this young artist's mastery of the water color medium. He never makes a false or unnecessary brush stroke and, consequently, can exploit completely the means at his command to tell these stories of army life that have been so popular with the admirers of his great ability.

Richard Lofton's "Youth and Age" gains its effectiveness rather from its grim and stark subject matter than from any particular verve in the formal arrangement. The many people who stop in front of this painting and ask about it would seem to prove that many seek in art a reflection of the important values that motivate human lives. Always, it has been demanded of the artist that he sublimate life and fulfill his impressive function of defeating the destructive forces of time and space by translating the elements of human experience into a permanent form. It has been in the arts that mankind has found reassurance for the spirit and comfort to the soul by the material evidence that there can be a continuity of human thought and a permanence of living values. Thus, the merely picturesque or charming may make a delightful painting but, always, it will lack the lasting and compelling appeal of subjects with greater depths of feeling.

Among the landscapes which mostly depict our colorful local scenery are works by E. Grace Ward, Fuller, W. C. Watts, Roy Martin, Sophie Harpe, John O'Shea, Richard, Lofton, Martin Baer, M. de Neale Morgan, M. Pegram, F. M. Moore, and four sparkling scenes by Will Irwin.

There are also flower paintings by Martin Baer, H. M. Mist, and Free Dean. There are three watercolors by the Chinese artist, S. Moy, which extend even further the conviction that this is an artist who fully understands the nature and demands of plastic arrangements.

This show will be on view until October 14. The Gallery is open mornings from 10 to 12 and afternoons from 2 to 5. Appointments may be made by phoning the curator, Mrs. Elizabeth Cass, Carmel 327.

The Poison Oak always has three leaves on each leaf stem, roundish to oval. The blossoms are a greenish white. The seeds, or berries, are white also and closely resemble mistletoe berries. This predatory plant is not at all choosy as to location, growing alike in wooded canyons and on slopes at elevations from 50 ft. to 5,000 ft. above sea level.

POETRY

RETURN TO THE DESERT

*We have come back to Trona
Where cones of the twisted pine
Are formed as rosettes of leopards.*

*The egg of stone lies cold;
And so does bone, bleached bone.*

*Under the night we hear
Deep in the strata'd sea,
Herds of turtle and bear
Descending endlessly.*

*Mornings, with the sun
We rise with cries, we run
With quickened tenderness
Toward our own transience,
And cherished breath.*

—KATHRYNE E. SCOVILLE

IN PRAISE OF A BROOK

*A brook is prodigal with melody,
The treble of the ripple and the bass
Note of the fall and pool its sounds in key,
And bears a burden with an even pace.*

*Famished for grass and root, in need of calm,
I seek the solace of its changeless song,
Its counterpoint is healing like a balm,
To one who traveled far and thirsted long.*

*A tree's pipes swell and rise, undisciplined,
Now thin, now thick with sound, erratic tone,
In tempo to the fingering of the wind:
A player who cannot call his pipes his own.*

*A brook, the music-master of the wood,
Runs scales all day and night with skill and ease,
And I feel a new singing in my blood
In a fugue I can never find in trees.*

—ALEX R. SCHMIDT.

AND WHAT IS POETRY

*And what is poetry, beside, beyond
The written word emblazoned on the page,
The dream of some fine dreamer, with his frond
Of laurels, singing songs throughout the age?
It is all music, from the plaintive call
Of the lonely loon's nostalgic cry of sadness
To the lark's high note at some pale dawn, and all
The half notes in between of pain and gladness.*

*It is all beauty, tinged with shade or light,
The sunset's flaming splendour, or the moon,
Slim censor, shedding perfume on the night,
And fading like our dreams, too soon, too soon!
Ebbing and flowing as the restless ocean,
It is the breadth and depth of all emotion.*

—HELEN HYDE JENSEN.

Philippine Ghosts and U.S. Testament

BY LUCILE TURNER

"When you don't believe in it (a ghost), you don't see it, but when you believe in it you do see it!" declared a frightened Filipina girl to her American school teacher as she and the other girls cowered in the corner of the room. The girl had "seen a ghost" on the woodland path over which the teacher hurried a few seconds later in answer to the frightened screams of the girls. This was one of the experiences related by Miss Matilda Weber, for a number of years missionary and teacher in the Philippines, at the fall meeting of the Carmel Missionary Society on Tuesday afternoon at the Church of the Wayfarer.

"Freedom from fear" of ghosts, of evil spirits that bring disease and disaster, of demons lurking to destroy one, comes only when one "knows the truth that makes men free," and in the early years when the United States governed the Philippine islands, ignorance and superstition, suspicion and fear were prevalent everywhere. The people consisted of many tribes with many languages and no common tongue, as only five percent of them knew Spanish, which had been the official speech. In areas away from Manila and the larger towns the common people lived in poverty, the prey to fears from which educators and missionaries strove to free them. Miss Weber had charge of a school in such a place, and she wondered at first why tuberculosis was so common in a warm climate where there was so much sunshine and people could spend so much of the time out of doors. Then she saw how they lived; parents and children, elder sons and their wives and children, sometimes eighteen persons in one small house, all sleeping at night in one room with windows and doors closed tight to keep out the evil spirits that came to steal the souls that leave the body during sleep.

Miss Weber told of conditions among the Kalinga tribe, headhunters in remote mountain country, and how in time native missionaries from the lowlands, their traditional enemies, won their trust, and how the Igorrotes, reputed to be unteachable, were thrilled when they found they could take schooling the same as other tribes. The Filipinos were in a frame of mind for change, for education, when the Americans took charge, and they profited from the new opportunities. Indeed, the Americans brought so many new things that one girl wrote in her examination paper on the Bible: "The Old Testament was written a long time ago, and the Americans wrote the New Testament."

Some years after Miss Weber had returned to this country, she and a friend, on a tour around the world, visited the Philippines and went into the remote mountain district to see again the former headhunters. The Igorrotes gave a feast in their honor; they improvised a table and benches for the visitors, used banana leaves for table cloth and squares of banana leaf for plates, then all meticulously washed their hands, for they had no knives, forks, and spoons, and all must dip with their fingers food out of the common dish. The American women partook with appreciation of the rice, roast pig, and "dulce" that topped the meal, knowing that their hosts would go on short rations perhaps for weeks thereafter, as they had taken their best products to make a feast for their visitors.

In spite of the fact that the bulk of the area of Los Padres National Forest is closed to recreational use on account of fire hazard, all the larger improved public camps on main county roads and state highways remain open to general public use.

James E. Crowther,
Minister

Editor, Pine Cone:

I had an unforgettable visit with Bernard Rowntree in the Hospital Annex the other day. I found him very cheerful, and deeply appreciative of the kindness of his many friends.

More than that, as we discussed matters pertaining to human sufferings and adversities, I discovered a mental attitude and a spiritual insight I had little expected. Without awareness on his part, he had become the Pastor and I the Parishioner.

He was putting his papers in shape, and among them had just discovered a prayer he had written some ten years ago, when in the full bloom of health. He had prepared it at the request of Rev. C. M. Dorsett, at that time Pastor of Carmel Community Church. I asked his permission to read it to my congregation, which I did last Sunday. It requires no revision in his affliction today.

PRAYER

"OUR FATHER: Thou knowest our defects; in what respect and to what extent we fail. We ask Thee to open our understanding to our needs, and we ask Thee to supply our lack to the extent to which we are willing to accept.

"We thank Thee for the opportunity to suffer, to learn, and to work. We thank Thee that there is no limit to the advancement we may make in our charity toward others, in our better understanding of others, and in the value of the service we may render to others.

"We thank Thee for all beauty, all truth, all love; for all the exceeding goodness that surrounds us.

"We ask not for what we wish, but for what Thou knowest we need to make us of more use to Thy children—the entire world—even as we are Thy children.

"We ask forgiveness for our stupidity, our lack of understanding, and for our unwillingness to accept the opportunities for individual growth, for increased knowledge, and for greater service. AMEN."

With his consent, I give the circumstances and the prayer to the public, through the kindness of The Pine Cone-Cymbal, in the hope that others may face life's adversities and afflictions with the courage and cheerfulness of Carmel's citizen, servant, and friend, Bernard Rowntree.

Sincerely yours,
James E. Crowther

FROM A WINDOW IN VAGABOND'S HOUSE. . . By Don Blanding

It is my belief that most of the people who walk by the sea at twilight are walking with ghosts, memories or dreams. When the bright fireworks of sunset burn down to smoky embers the beach is almost deserted because the happier people, the fulfilled people, go their way to the busy gregarious groups where only the golden ghosts would venture. Those who remain by the sea, either walking or sitting on a rocky point, are communing with friendly ghosts, summoning memories, wrestling with devils of thought or weaving dreams into bright garments, or patching up the worn rents in old dreams and trying to make them presentable.

There is no part of the day so beautiful to me as the dusk, especially the dusks here in Carmel with the endless varied music of the sea, the black embroidery of tree patterns against the faded silk of the sky, the beckoning of the casual streets, and the mystery of twisting paths to follow through these enchanted hours. It is then that I like to invite my dearest ghosts to walk and talk with me, not sorrowfully nor with regrets, but gladly, visiting as with treasured friends, recalling moments of laughter and hours of happiness. Dreams seem more possible of fulfillment in these hours of dusk; one gets courage to fight for them, to believe in them, to dare for them.

When two people walk together in the dusk it seems easier to open locked secret chambers of the heart to each other, chambers which shyness might prevent in the harsher light of day or in the brilliance of lighted rooms. Moonlight is not quite the same; it has a witching quality which puts a spell over all that is said and makes it not quite to be trusted fully. Truth walks in gray garments in the twilight.

When I came to Carmel at the end of February I was ill in body and in heart. The distance to recovery seemed so very long and so very far away. A friend reminded me of the Chinese saying that a journey of a thousand miles begins with just one step, and I began that one first step along the sea shore. Night after night, twilight after twilight, I walked by the sea until the soothing rhythms of the surf brought order to the clamour of my thoughts; the beautiful silhouetted designs of the trees against the soft sky replaced the ugly, weary pictures in my eyes and mind. The bright lights in the windows along the road stirred imps of curiosity as to what the thoughts might be in the minds of people who moved through those lights within the houses. I reminded myself that whatever distress might be in my own mind, certainly among those shadow figures were sorrows and distresses greater than any of mine.

Whether I walked and thought or just walked until tiredness brought its healthful sedative to me, the old Mother Sea was working her magic and the twilight was softening the stark patterns of reality until my eyes were strong enough to look at them unafraid again. Each evening I could feel the valiance of my spirits rising in strength until I felt fit to return to the fascinating business of living.

Legion Of Merit For Colonel Totten

Colonel Robert Totten has been presented the Legion of Merit medal for "exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service while on duty with the Army Air Forces from March 3, 1942, to November 23, 1943."

Now serving with the 13th AAF Bomber Command, Colonel Totten has been overseas since December 1943, during which time he has served in both the South and Southwest Pacific theatres as an expert on anti-aircraft artillery.

Award of the Legion of Merit was made, according to the official citation, for having been "instrumental in solving a multitude of problems relating to the operational integration of anti-aircraft artillery with fighters and an aircraft warning service in the newly conceived air defense team." At that time he was serving with the Directorate of Air Defense, and was also Acting Chief of the Anti-aircraft section, Fighter and Air Defense Branch, in the office of the assistant Chief of Air Staff. He is a graduate of West Point.

His wife, Beatrice Daly Totten, and two children live on 14th Street between Camino Real and Monte Verde, Carmel. His parents, Major and Mrs. G. H. Totten, live at 12th and Camino Real.

MEN NEEDED AT AIR STATION

The Naval Auxiliary Air Station in Monterey has a critical need for skilled and semi-skilled workers. Following is a list of current vacancies: Two auto mechanics, two gardeners, two carpenters, one general helper, and one electrician.

All appointments will be subject to the regulations of the War Manpower Commission and the U. S. Civil Service Commission. Interested persons should call on the U. S. Employment Service: 266 Pearl Street, Monterey, for their work clearance and referral.

Keep spare fuses in your home

You may have experienced more frequent fuse "blow-outs" in your home these days. As appliances and cords and plugs get older, loose connections develop that cause short circuits that make fuses blow out.

Take these two precautions and save time and annoyance:

1. Handle plugs and cords carefully. Tighten up loose screws and nuts on appliances.
2. Keep spare fuses on hand. It takes only a few minutes to replace a burned-out fuse.

Before this war, our Service Department took special pride in fast service on fuse replacements. Today problems of increased service demands, manpower limitations and mileage restrictions make it difficult to render this service to you as promptly as we would like to.

However new fuses are easily replaced. You can do it yourself and avoid inconvenience and delay. This self-service on your part will enable our service men to handle more quickly the more serious service calls from you, your neighbor and war industries. See your dealer for spare fuses.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH

World Communion Sunday will be observed by a service of the Holy Communion at 8 a. m., and a choral Holy Communion service at 11:00 a. m. The full vested choir will participate in this service, with R. Vaughn Williams' "Come down, O Love Divine," as the offertory anthem. The Rector, Rev. C. J. Hulsewe, will have a sermon message for the day, and Alice Lee Keith has arranged a special Beethoven Organ program which includes the Preludio Religioso, Adagio and the Ode to Thanksgiving.

All Saints' is a House of Prayer for all People, and welcomes the visitor to Carmel. Intercessions for the men and women in the service of our country at each worship hour. The church school begins at 9:30 a. m. with graded classes for all ages, and during the 11:00 a. m. service children can be left in the church school annex south of the church in charge of a competent person.

CHURCH OF THE WAYFARER

World Communion Sunday will be observed on Sunday morning at the Church of the Wayfarer. All people are invited to participate in this sacred memorial without regard to denomination. Dr. James E. Crowther will preach on the theme: "The Abiding Presence." The organ music by Margaret Sherman Lea will be as follows: "O Bread to Pilgrims Given," Berwald; "Come, Ye Blessed," Scott; "Cherubim Song," Tchaikowsky; "God So Loved the World," Stainer; "Lift Up Your Heads, O Ye Gates," Wennerberg. The Church School begins at 9:45. The Church Service is at 11:00. Visitors are cordially invited.

College Scholarship Available Now; Ling-Fu Yang Speaks At AAUW Meet

A scholarship loan fund of $108 is available to assist a girl on the Peninsula to attend college, it was announced at the American Association of University Women at the meeting at Holman's solarium on Saturday afternoon. The association wishes the sum to be active rather than idle in the treasury, and any girl interested may get in touch with the president, Miss Harriet M. Baker, of Pacific Grove. The meeting was in the form of a membership tea, with about fifty members and guests attending to hear Miss Ling-Fu Yang speak of her activities in Chinese art in her native land and in the United States.

As a young girl the artist came to this country to prepare for college, but a keen interest in an art competition in China led her to return before she had completed her preparation, and for a number of years she studied art in her homeland. From 1928 to '36 she was painting for the government, and she exhibited two large scrolls of historical characters in the manner of the ancient artists of the Orient whose work is now shown in museums. She showed also an exquisite portrait of her mother from a drawing made by the artist at 13 years of age, and a portrait of Madame Chiang Kai-shek, at whose commission she did some of her work.

It was while teaching at Columbia University in Vancouver, B. C., in 1936, that she began demonstrating Chinese finger-painting, and she related with amusement her early self-consciousness and difficulty in working at the art before an audience. For the University Women she quickly did a rose with its cluster of leaves and a hovering butterfly, while her audience showed great interest in the technique new to them. She closed her program with an exhibit of beautiful and colorful Chinese costumes, which were modeled by Mrs. Elizabeth Hill. These, she said, will go ultimately to a museum in this country, the traditional friend of China.

At the business meeting preceding the talk, plans for the year's activities were reported by the various chairmen; the president announced that the State organization recommended support in the election of Proposition No. 9, for the benefit of schools, and No. 1, concerning returning soldiers. The Association, while entirely non-political, like the Parent-Teacher Association gives its endorsement to the measures for the improvement of education and for general social conditions.

Christian Science War Relief Groups Active Locally

The local Christian Science Church has Christian Science War Relief Committees which are taking an active part in making and shipping to Los Angeles civilian garments for needy people in Europe, and knitted garments for our own armed forces, it was announced this week.

In Monterey the work is done in homes. The Carmel and Pacific Grove churches maintain workrooms, centrally located, which are open daily, where all who wish to contribute clothing or work are welcome. There garments are made or remodeled, and yarn is issued for knitting. Good used clothes are being contributed in great quantity. They are cleaned, pressed, and mended if necessary. The shipments from the Monterey Peninsula Christian Science War Relief Committees have received high praise from the Los Angeles Committee, which recently reported shipments during the past six months of between 3 and 4 tons of civilian clothing to Great Britain, between 46 and 47 tons to Russia, and about one ton to the Polish Relief Committee located in Los Angeles.

Rosalia Seville

The death of Mrs. Rosalia M. Seville, September 24, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. S. Lamb in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, will come as a shock to her many friends in Carmel. Mrs. Seville had lived in Carmel at the home of her son Frederick on North Casanova street for the past eight years. Two months ago Mrs. Seville had a slight stroke and Mrs. Lamb came from Oklahoma to be with her. She decided to take her mother home with her and September 17 she seemed able to make the trip. They arrived on Wednesday evening, and Sunday morning at 4 a. m., Mrs. Seville passed away in her sleep.

Mrs. Seville was born in Lodi, Wisconsin. Rosalia Mathilda Knut-

Bible selections will include the following passage from Isaiah 55: 8, 9: "For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which reads as follows: "Eternal things (verities) are God's thoughts as they exist in the spiritual realm of the real. Temporal things are the thoughts of mortals and are the unreal, being the opposite of the real or the spiritual and eternal," (p. 337).

sen. Her husband was a successful merchant of Lodi, who died in 1907. She was 87 years old at the time of her death. She had always been very active, and up to the time of her recent illness, enjoyed taking long walks in Carmel.

Mrs. Seville is survived by three children: Frederick B. Seville of Carmel; Flavia, (Mrs. H. S. Lamb) of Oklahoma City; and Miss Ruth Seville of Bellaire, Texas. The interment takes place at Lodi, Wisconsin, in the family plot, today.

One of the last things that Mrs. Seville did before she left for Oklahoma, was to ask The Pine Cone to say good bye to her friends in Carmel and thank them for their many kindnesses during her illness.

Gottfried-Gittinger Engagement

Mrs. Fred Bechdolt this week received the announcement of the engagement of her grandson, Hugh Gottfried, to Martha Jane Gittinger, daughter of a well known businessman of Tulsa, Oklahoma. Mr. Gottfried, the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Gottfried, (Bonnie Hale), who have been Carmel residents for many years before moving to Los Gatos recently, went to Sunset and played football for Carmel High School. He attended the University of Arkansas under the V-12 program, and it was there he met Miss Gittinger, who will continue her studies during Mr. Gottfried's service in a Signal Operations Unit. He is now at Camp Edison, New Jersey, awaiting assignment to overseas duty.

Turango, Gunner's Mate 2/c.

Here for a few days visiting Mrs. Lottie Fraties, Louis Turango is sporting his new rating, gunner's mate 2/c, received following his course at Gunner School in San Diego, where he passed examinations that entitle him to first class gunner's mate rating when it is available. After his visit here, he goes on to San Francisco for additional study before being assigned to sea duty, of which he is no novice, since he was at Pearl Harbor when the Japs arrived, was on the flagship at Casa Blanca, and spent 18 months in the South Pacific, where he saw action at the Coral Sea and other island engagements of that period.

Contemplates Divorce

Mrs. Carol Swan announced this week that she is leaving for Reno, Nevada, to establish residence for a divorce from Alford Clifford Swan, Chief Cook, Merchant Marine. Mr. Swan is now in New Orleans, Louisiana.

Young Allan Ross Kiester

Carmel friends will be pleased to learn of the birth of a son, Allan Ross Kiester, to Lieut. Comd. and Mrs. Charles Ross Kiester on September 14 in Chicago, where Lieut. Comd. Kiester is in charge of the new material redistribution and disposal center. Young Allan's grandmother is Mrs. Lucille Kiester of Los Angeles.

Carmelites On Bixby Creek

Dr. and Mrs. Chester Hare have recently bought seven and a half acres on Bixby Creek and are waiting impatiently for lumber and supplies so they can start building a summer cottage by the water side and within a redwood cone's throw of the spot where once stood the country school house which Dr. Hare attended when he lived on parents' ranch, now the Anthony Brazil property. Another Carmelite on Bixby Creek is the Hares' nearest neighbor, M. J. Murphy, who has bought 160 acres and the Bolin cabin upstream.

Gormans Re-Located

The many Carmel friends of Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Gorman will be interested to learn that they have moved from White Plains, New York, to 10 Cole Terrace, New Rochelle, New York. Mrs. Gorman and her four children were evacuated from China and made their home in Carmel until Mr. Gorman came home on the Gripsholm.

Berkeley Visitor

Mrs. Pearl Queen Wilson of Berkeley, who recently bought a house at Monte Verde and Second, is spending a holiday in her new home.

Mrs. Eaton Goes to Fresno

Mrs. Edwin M. Eaton, who divides her time between Carmel and her home in Fresno, has returned to that city where she will spend a few weeks before returning to Carmel, where she lives with her daughter, Evelyn, who teaches at Carmel High School.

Woman's Club Activities

At a meeting held recently, the following officers were selected for the Carmel Woman's club: president, Mrs. Alton Walker; vice president and program, Mrs. Helen Clark Cranston; second vice president and membership, Mrs. Verne Skillman; recording secretary, Mrs. D. E. Nixon; corresponding secretary, Miss Amy Comings; treasurer, Miss Amy Campbell; house, Mrs. J. W. Getsinger; librarian, Mrs. William Heathorne; bridge, Mrs. E. B. Grigg; garden, Miss Flora Hartwell; press, Mrs. Kathryn Landsdowne; director at large, Mrs. Saxton Pope.

General meetings will be held the first Monday of each month; the bridge section, second and fourth Mondays; book, third Monday; garden, third Friday. Board meetings, first Thursday after the first Monday at Girl Scout House at 10:30 a. m.

A general meeting which includes all sections is held on the first Monday of each month featuring some speaker of note, a musical program, and the annual flower show. The following programs are scheduled for the season: Oct. 2—Speaker, Mrs. Dorothy Allen Dunn, Shanghai Interval; Nov. 6—Lecture, Jan Reiner, "Architecture Yesterday and Tomorrow"; Dec. 4—Hobby Show; Jan. 8—Gladys Steele and Nicolai Alexander, "An Afternoon of Music"; Feb. 5—Speaker, Ann Holden, "Celebrities are Nice People"; March 5—South American Pictures; April 2, Not yet chosen; May 7—Flower Show.

Mrs. Helen Clark Cranston, program chairman, is responsible for the selection of speakers and other interesting subjects, chosen for this year's entertainment.

Mrs. Alton Walker, the president, and members of the Board urge the members to keep this list of programs and avail themselves of the many social opportunities the club affords.

Prospective members contact Mrs. Skillman, Telephone 1351-W.

Departing Guests Entertained

Mrs. Aimee Gay of Washington, D. C., her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Watson, and son Richard Gay Watson of Indianola, Iowa, who have been house guests of Mrs. Elsa Woollams, have gone to San Carlos, where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Cellarius. They will return to their homes in the east on October 5. Before Mrs. Gay and Mrs. Watson left, Mrs. Woollams entertained at several informal teas. On Sunday afternoon, Miss Allison Stilwell, Mrs. Florence Lockwood, Frank Wickman, and Finns Haakon Frolich were among the guests. Mrs. Woollams also invited a few friends in for a delightful evening in honor of Miss Edith Wooster, of Scarsdale, New York. Those enjoying Mrs. Woollams' hospitality were Mrs. Lupin Lupin of Sacramento, Mrs. George Nelson, Miss Sophie Bergdorff, Mrs. Theodore Burnett, Ferdinand Bergdorff and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bachelder.

Promotion For Lt. Col. Inman

The son of Mrs. M. A. Inman, Carmel, and the late Lewis E. Inman, a major in the medical corps at the time of his death, Lt. Col. Arthur L. Inman was recently promoted to the grade of colonel.

The 35-year-old colonel, who is deputy for supply and maintenance at Buckley Field, Colorado, enlisted in the Coast Artillery as a private in 1929. Upon his discharge from that organization, he entered the United States Military Academy at West Point July 1, 1930, and was graduated as a second Lieutenant June 12, 1934, and assigned to the 4th Infantry at Ft. George Wright, Ga. Following a tour of duty with the 33rd Infantry in the Panama Canal Zone from 1935 to 1937, he entered the Infantry School at Ft. Benning, Ga., and was assigned to the 2nd Infantry at Ft. Brady, Mich., upon graduation in 1938. He was detailed to duty with the Quartermaster Corps at Chanute Field, Ill., in 1939, serving there until 1942 when he activated the Quartermaster Corps functions at Lincoln (Neb.) Air Base. He has been assigned to Buckley Field since September of 1942. Colonel Inman and his wife, the former Miss Helene Kettner, reside at the Park Lane Hotel in Denver.

Fragile Hilton

Hilton, 13 year-old son of Puppeteers Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott, wound up the summer as he began it, in bandages. Last Sunday, while fishing in Monterey Bay, he mashed the fingers of his left hand between two boats. Early in the summer, while wrestling on Carmel beach with a playmate, he broke a collar bone. In between breaks this summer, Hilton has been a valuable man on The Pine Cone fold 'em-up-and-mail-'em staff of Thursday afternoons. About this latest mishap, Hilton points out that he is leaving town with his parents for the winter tour of the Puppet theatre at the end of this week and would have been able to work only one more Thursday for The Pine Cone anyway, and besides, he was lucky, the accident didn't happen until after he'd caught a bucket full of yellow tails.

Buffet Supper

Mrs. Olga Dampier and her daughter Gloria of Van Nuys, California, were recent house guests of Mrs. Helen Brown and their cousins, Mrs. Earl Bever, Jr., and Ellen Brown. Mrs. Bever and her sister, Ellen Brown, gave a buffet supper in their honor. Their guests were: Capt. and Mrs. Williams, Capt. and Mrs. Trusket, Miss Melba Covney, Lt. Sam Page and Lt. Jim Marshall.

Many Happy Returns

Familiar as good friends to many Carmelites, are Mr. and Mrs. Russell Mathias, who have come back to enjoy Carmel after many intermittent departures. New York is their wintering place, but the ineffable spell of the Peninsula appears to draw them back. A long time patron of the arts is Mrs. Russell Mathias; some time ago her portrait was painted quite beautifully by Paul Thevanas.

Berkey-Thompson Wedding

The marriage of Charles Leon Berkey of Carmel and Miss Helen Cole Thompson of Pacific Grove, was solemnized on Tuesday, September 26, at four o'clock at the Church of the Wayfarer, the Rev. James E. Crowther officiating. The only ones present at the ceremony were the best man, John Milton Thompson of Monterey, brother of the bride, and his wife Marguerite C. Thompson, the matron of honor. Mrs. Berkey wore powder blue crepe dress, a small black hat, black accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Thompson wore a red gabardine suit with black accessories. Mrs. Berkey spent her girlhood on the Peninsula attending Monterey High School for two years and then went to Kent State College near Cleveland, Ohio, and has been teaching music in the public schools in Cincinnati. She has been spending the summer in Pacific Grove.

Mr. Berkey, one of Carmel's best known business men, came to Carmel twenty-three years ago from Chicago, where he was associated with the American Express Company. He is Vice President and general manager of the Bank of Carmel.

Mr. and Mrs. Berkey are at home to their friends on St. Louis Road in Carmel Woods.

Birthday Party For John

The youngest set had a wonderful time celebrating the fourth birthday of little John, son of Mrs. Charles Schifferer on Scenic Drive. The big event was the cake, blazing with four candles, and there were favors and all the trimmings that make a party. The children were taken for a pony ride to complete their thrills. John's guests were Susan Bradley, Renee Wurtzmann, Renee Myette, Jackie Reynolds, Tommy Rigby, Jon Sutera, Bobby Hallett, Nicky Wilson, and Bart Ehman.

Mrs. Elliot Bright Returns

Mrs. Elliot Bright arrived in Carmel Monday evening after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Allan Jones at Ft. Atkinson, Wisconsin. Mrs. Bright will be in her home on Monte Verde after Oct. 1. She is spending a few days with Mrs. Robert Duncan on Casanova.

Mrs. Edwards To Give Reading

At an open meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer to be held October 3, Mrs. Carol Edwards will read, by request, "A Child's Journey With Dickens" by Kate Douglas Wiggin. The program will follow a box luncheon at which the ladies will serve coffee and tea. Mrs. Edwards, reading will be at 1:30. The public is invited.

Diana Ayres Home From Colorado

Mrs. Diana Ayres, wife of Sgt. Gordon Ayres, editor of the First Regiment Herald, has just returned from Colorado where she spent several months at their ranch near Grand Lake. Mrs. Ayres writes fiction, poetry, and lyrics for musical comedies. She and Sgt. Ayres collaborated on "The Land That God Remembers". Mrs. Ayres also wrote the lyrics for "Laugh That Off." She is now at work on a historical novel. Sgt. Ayres arranges the shows that are given at Ft. Ord, and in the last year has three hundred and thirteen performances to his credit.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles La Praelle of Pebble Beach entertained a group of friends Sunday evening when they enjoyed a venison dinner. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sawyer, Mrs. J. G. Hooper, Mrs. Mary Heathorne, Mrs. Georgia Thompson, and Miss Helen Palmtag.

DePackh for Dewey

Mr. and Mrs. Gustav dePackh, formerly of Carmel and to be again of Carmel as soon as the war is over and Mr. dePackh can be spared from the ship yards, where his craftsmanship as a wood carver is valuable in making models that serve as blueprints, spent several days here this week. DePackh, an enthusiastic Dewey supporter, had with him a letter in which the presidential candidate thanked him for the gift of a handsome scrap book which dePackh had made, employing his artistry with the knife to decorate the wooden covers.

Dinner For Miss Cornelius

Mrs. William L. Starnes, Jr., and Mrs. George S. Eckhardt entertained at dinner last Friday in honor of their house guest, Miss Loretta Cornelius of Hoisington, Kansas, who was Mrs. Starnes' room mate at Stephens College. Their guests were Mrs. Phil Gage of Pacific Grove, Mrs. Joseph D. Raney, Mrs. Peter Peca, Mrs. Robt. Totten, Mrs. C. Ketchum, Mrs. William Gunther, Mrs. J. Barlow, and Miss Jane Ball. Mrs. Starnes and Mrs. Eckhardt are leaving in a few days for Beverly Hills, where they will visit Mrs. C. R. Starnes, an aunt of Mrs. Starnes' husband.

Mornings at Art Gallery

Opening the Carmel Art Gallery in the morning has proved a decided success. Many people who come to town for their marketing or go to the Post Office find it a convenience to drop in at the Gallery and enjoy the show. The hours are from 10 to 12 and in the afternoon from 2 to 5.

North And South Circles Continue Indian Studies

The North Circle of the Church of the Wayfarer met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Howard Timbers and elected Mrs. Grace Howden chairman of the Circle. Mrs. J. William Mason conducted the devotional part of the program. Mrs. D. E. Nixon continued the discussion of the history of the American Indian which the women of all the churches of the Peninsula have selected for study this season. Mrs. Nixon opened her remarks with a Navajo translation of the Twenty Third Psalm. Her subject was "The War Contribution of the American Indian." Twenty thousand Indians are in the service of their country, in the fighting forces and as nurses, doctors, and in clerical jobs. When this country went into the war the Sioux, Iroquois Confederacy and the Navajos held their war dances. The Navajos oiled up their guns and rode to Gallup, New Mexico, ready to go to work on the Japanese or any one else threatening the United States. This, Mrs. Nixon pointed out, was the reaction of one of the minority groups that is calling for just recognition. Mrs. Nixon directed the attention of the group to the fact that fifty bills concerning Indian affairs have been introduced into Congress and are due to come up at an early session. These should be carefully studied by those who have the welfare of the Indians at heart.

The South Circle met at the home of Mrs. Wm. H. Hamilton on Junipero street, with seventeen members attending. Miss Agnes L. Williston gave the devotions and Mrs. J. M. Southwell paid tribute in a memorial to Mrs. Cora Newton, faithful member who passed away in June.

Miss L. Lucile Turner, chairman, conducted the program, a short study of the American Indian, with special reference to those of the Pacific coast, California, and the tribes of Monterey County. Large photographs and magazine articles and pictures illustrated the discussion, which brought out personal experiences of the circle members and their parents. The World Friendship Circle is this year combining with the other two circles, and those who are interested made small contributions toward the support and education of the girl in China whom the circle members assumed as their particular project. Dr. James E. Crowther came in at the close and read to the group the Bernard Rowntree prayer given elsewhere in this issue.

of MEN and BEASTS

By PHIL NESBITT

(Whose opinions should in no way be interpreted as those of The Pine Cone-Cymbal—P. N.)

Suddenly, in this Carmel place of summertime, and tourists, and idling people, of fog wisps among the pine branches, there is an acute autumnal nostalgia. Fall is here, subtly—in a fashion unlike the great eastern regions. There is yet little change, though the maple trees which occur somewhat infrequently out Big Sur way are certainly a brighter orange and russet than I've ever seen before. Perhaps the whole climatic scheme is altering. Given a thousand years from now, there may be heavy snow fall and icicles hanging from Carmel's spidery eaves. Then again, maybe the Japan current is offended with the present day swing of warring events involving that small, but large-ideal nation of gardeners, and has decided to veer off in another direction, down South America way.

My brother John's ranch, called the Circle M, in the Big Sur, apparently has given sanctuary to a good many black widow spiders; that is, until the coming of brother John and his wife, Bernice and son Michael. Several rattlesnakes have vanished, after threatening closeness—it's a sort of preserve, given over largely to wild animal life. Many cougars—puma—or mountain lions, as one may choose to term them, have for years roamed wildly and freely across the slopes of this eight thousand acre tract. Wild cats, raccoons, wild boar, etc; make serene the sylvan scene. An earthquake fault renders the big house, which stands between the sea and the highway, quite doubtful when it comes to the matter of inhabiting it. A seam, ominous and wide, clearly bisects the redwood mansion. As for myself... I think at this point that I rather enjoy earthquakes. A basic fashion of ultimate earthy excitement. I recall that earthquake which struck San Diego in 1933. I was painting in Guatemala City at the time. (A terrain not altogether free of quaking earth habits.) I read the local papers of the day—which told nicely, of the 'complete inundation of California.' I was more or less concerned... for family reasons, but lived to be reassured by the consequent data which apologized well for the error. California was not, after all, inundated. Only a few badly constructed school buildings had opened up, revealing the corruption in the building trade. It often takes a 'bath in chaos,' to show up the hidden flaw, the unapparent crime in the body humaninity.

home after the war.

Shortly after Mrs. Loef's arrival here, Colonel Loef was sent to North Africa where, in April of 1943, he organized the Leadership and Battle training school and was its commanding officer for nine months. He also organized the Ground Forces Training Center in North Africa and in Italy, where he has been assigned to the Peninsula Base Section, whose sanitary engineers, through a miracle of organization and swift action, saved Naples from disease and plague after the Germans had destroyed the water supply and sewer system of the city.

Included in the story of the now famous Base Section is the clearing of the port, clogged with the hulls of more than two hundred sunken ships, so that it could be converted into the greatest military supply base in the world. Among other operations were the laying of nearly two hundred miles of pipe to keep oil supplies flowing to the Allied fighting front and the construction of twenty-eight general and station hospitals for the care of casualties.

RED + NEWS

By HELEN A. FIELD

This is an anniversary month for the Production Unit of the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross. In September 1939, just after England declared war, the old Bank of Carmel Building on Ocean Avenue became a very busy place. Under the watchful eye of the deserted Teller's Window the work of the new Production Unit was in full swing. With Mrs. John W. Dickinson as chairman, sewing, knitting and folding surgical dressings were proceeding apace with Miss Nan McCormick, Mrs. Guy Jordon, and Miss Alma Edler in charge respectively. By December 19th the first quota was completed and shipped.

From that September five years ago the women of Carmel have kept the work of the Production Unit going continuously. The work has changed somewhat, for most of it is now for our servicemen, especially for those in hospitals. The making of surgical dressings has become a separate unit, now under the chairmanship of Mrs. A. M. Allen. Sewing and knitting go ahead in the Production Unit, Mrs. Vernon Godwin, Chairman. Quotas have increased greatly and are still increasing. In the calendar year just passed 350 different workers have turned out: 3,848 sewed garments, 731 knitted articles, 320 repaired articles, 2,722 kit bags and 533 miscellaneous articles.

A new and larger quota, entirely for men in military hospitals, has just been accepted. We need more workers to meet this quota. There is an urgent need for another electric sewing machine. Can you, and will you lend us one by the first of the month? We also need scraps of heavy washable material and chintz to make slippers for our men in hospitals.

BLUE TOKENS

No blue tokens will be valid after the last food store has closed Saturday, September 30. This gives local housewives eight shopping days to spend any blue tokens they may have on hand. Storekeepers have already stopped giving them as change, and on OPA orders, are only accepting them in blocks of ten. Families may pool their tokens during this period.

J. M. Southwell Lets Gen. Patton Have Right-of-Way On Cherbourg Road—He's Home From Munition Ship Voyage

had slipped ashore for two hours in a port in Scotland with gum, oranges, cigarettes and playing cards for a cousin he hadn't seen since they were both 5 years old. All leaves were unofficial on that ten thousand ton liberty ship which left New York harbor June 19 with its load of shells bedded on sand ballast, with cord wood for dunage. None of the merchant seamen aboard knew their destinations as they crossed the Atlantic in an 85 ship convoy. They touched at Belfast, then at port in Scotland, at Glasgow, then around the coast of England and up the channel, through the mine fields to the beach head on the coast of France, where the army had lined up and sunk five great ships in the shallows to make breakwaters.

They were twenty days lying behind the breakwater before the soldiers finished the job of unloading the shells, swinging them out of the hold in cargo nets, taking them ashore in the "ducks" in two ton lots.

Belfast was their only port of call on the voyage home. They had to put in for food, because the soldiers, tired of field rations, had dined frequently with them on board during the twenty days off France. In a great convoy of 120 ships they made the crossing to New York, where Southwell found that a shipmate was going his way—driving to San Diego. So he came along, stopping at Pittsburgh to pick up Mrs. Southwell and the children, and arriving here at the home of his parents, Wednesday.

R. Morton Teaches At Hughes'

Rachael Morton, voice teacher and concert singer, is away from her home on the dunes of Fridays and Saturdays since she accepted a post on the faculty of the Helene Hughes studios of the dance, theatre and voice in San Francisco, taking full charge of the voice department. It was through a friend of Helene Hughes, who heard Miss Morton sing here several Sundays ago as soloist in the Christian Science Church choir, that the offer was made. Miss Morton, enthusiastic about the fine voices that have been placed in her care at the school, will coach for radio, stage and concert work. She is not giving up her pupils here in Carmel, among whom is Anne Barrows, whose singing at a Musical Arts Concert this summer charmed a critical Carmel audience.

Musical Art Club

The Musical art club held a board meeting at the home of Mrs. Grace Howden on San Mateo Circle last week with Carl Bensberg presiding. Other members present were Mr. Rue Manhire, secretary, Miss Sophie Harpe, chairman of the program committee, Miss Frances Whitehead, Miss Edith Holman, Miss Margaret Lea, Mrs. Florence TenWinkel, Mrs. Edith Anderson, Mrs. Millicent Sears, Mrs. Emma Evans, Mrs. Rue Manhire, Miss Gertrude Symonds, Mr. and Mrs. Roudi Partridge, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Abinante, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McClain, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lyon, and the membership chairman, Eben Whittlesey. Subject of the membership was discussed and each of the above officers authorized to accept applications of membership which is open to all interested local people.

City Clerk Back

Back from two weeks hiking the Sierras in the Lake Tahoe region with his son, Peter, Jr., City Clerk Peter Mawdsley this week was again presiding over his books, files and adding machine in his office in City Hall. He reports an enjoyable vacation but plans on taking the next one earlier in the season, as he found the camps around the lake have a way of closing up this time of year, unceremoniously sending visitors away sans bed and board.

Steinbecks Expected

John Steinbeck, his wife and baby are soon to be back on the Peninsula. They have taken the Russell Williams house at Carmel Highlands and will arrive from New York about the fifth of October.

Mrs. Acton Hall In Ohio

Mrs. Acton Hall, Ocean and Carmelo, left Carmel last Friday for a visit of indefinite length in Piqua, Ohio.

All Saints' Woman's Auxiliary

Susan Porter will tell stories from Irish mythology at the monthly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of All Saints' Church which will be held at the parish house

Wednesday, October 4, at 12:30. Luncheon will be served by Mrs. Lawrence Quinn and her committee. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. C. J. Hulsewe, by Monday evening, telephone 230.

Mrs. T. M. Criley entertained the Democratic Women of the Highlands at a social tea last week.

KNIGHT AND LESLIE SUE

Allen Knight and Wanda Leslie brought suit Sept. 19 against James J. Toy, for $240 and $134.37 respectively, which they claim is due them for services performed while they were associated with Toy in his real estate office in Monterey.

Charles P. McHarry represents the complainants, the firm of Hudson, Martin and Ferrante, the defendant.

LION MOVIES

The Lions were again entertained with movies at their dinner meeting Tuesday night, this time by an educational film on plant life and another on scientific instruments for weighing and measuring. The movies were shown by Dick Williams of the High School faculty.

George Ball, of Fresno, and Enos Fouratt were guests of the organization.

City Attorney Files Complaint Against Gladys K. Dixon

City Attorney Peter Ferrante filed a misdemeanor complaint in Judge George Ross' court yesterday against Gladys K. Dixon, charging failure to take out a building permit and maintaining two single dwelling units on one site in violation of city ordinances 987-988, and the provisions of the building code.

Action was taken by the city attorney on instruction of the city council. Maximum penalty that can be imposed on Mrs. Dixon if she is found to be guilty is 90 days in jail, $300 fine, or both.
